Whereas, The liquor traffic is a most powerful hindrance to the gospel of Christ and an aggressive enemy to social order; and, whereas, this traffic is steadly encroaching upon all that Christian menrevere and the human heart holds dear; and, whereas, it seeks to destroy the Christian Sabbath and annihilate public morals and public conscience; and, whereas, all Christian bodies should speak out in no uncertain tones on this question; therefore, Resolved, By the southern Eaptist convention assembled, that we favor the speedy and entire prohibition of the liquor traffic; that we oppose license for this traffic in any and all of its forms through which men buy the right to destroy human hope and happiness and blight human souts as an offense against public morals, and a sin against God. A Deputation of the Westphalia Strikers at the range.

Berlin, May 14.—At Berchum today the strikers who drove off the miners who wished to return to work at Prince Regent colliery yesterday, were overawed by troops. The employes have sent a deputation to Berlin to interview the emperor Wednesday. Large quantities of English and Belgian coal are arriving at Essen. The strikers' interview with the emperor today lasted fifteen minutes. Minister Herrfurth was present. The emperor gravely listened to the grievances of the strikers and occasionally asked questions. In reply to their complaints, he said he took a deep personal interest in the welfare of his subjects in Westphalia, as he did in the welfare of all his subjects. He had carefully followed the struggle, and he had ordered a thorough inquiry into the facts. He warned the delegation against the plottings of politithorough inquiry into the facts. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 14.—[Special.]—In the criminal court today, Ben Elgy, colored, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree for the killing of J. W. About three years ago, he murdered and robbed a white woman in Cobb county, Ga., and soon afterwards shot a policeman in Atlanta, who was trying to arrest him for burglary. In this city Elgy murdered Meadows last January for the Elgy murdered Meadows last January for the purpose of robbery, and about two months ago he assaulted and robbed Mrs. J. U. After this service was over, the party of prelates went to the residence of Father Keiley, just in the rear of the church. After partaking of refreshments and resting for awhile the cardinal, in company with Father Keiley and some of the other priests, walked out Washington street and Capitol avenue, and on their return visited and went through the new capitol building. The remainder of the day, until about 4 o'clock, was spent by the cardinal and his party with Father Keiley at his residence.

MIS. HILL'S RECENTION.

The reception tendered the cardinal by Mrs. Rhode Hill was a most elegant affair. The decorations of the house were all beautiful and appropriate to the occasion. In the dining room where the cardinal stood to be introduced to the guests, a cardinal's hat made entirely of red geraneums was suspended over the full length mirror, the fire place was filled with ferns and the mantel mirror reflected vases and bowls of pink and white roses; a richly carved etique opposite was ornamented with tilting baskets of roses and cut glass bowls of pansies and all the chandeliers were twined with trailing ferns.

The refreshment room was decorated entirely with the cardinal's colors. The table cloth was of exquisite real lace on cardinal satin and the center piece was a beautiful cut glass bowl filled with red amarglis and maiden hair fern. This bowl was placed on a round mirror wreathed with ferns and water lilies. The cakes were marvels of artistic decoration, being adorned with bunche of grapes and leaves and roses more exquisitely formed tham any ever carved by the hand of a sculptor from marble. Red roses and brass candelabras with red candesticks were among the other decorations. The chandeliers above had their globes covered with teaming and the half were confined by bunches of white spice plaks. The mantel was adorned with delicate ferns and, white

It was expected that this reception would last an hour or longer, but the cardinal, who had intended spending the night in the city, was compelled to take his departure at 8:10, consequently only about twenty-five minutes were left for the exercises there. The train which he was ta have left on should have started at 7:50, but the officers of the road kindly volunteered to hold over for twenty minutes, in order that the cardinal might meet the people who had assembled to greet him at the church.

The exercises were brief, consisting of a short introductory speech by Hon. James F. O'Neil, after which Cardinal Gibbons made a short address. The cardinal's talk was eagerly listened to by the audience, and was full of commendation for the work which the church had accomplished in Atlanta. He spoke of the warm and hearty reception which he had received on every hand, and that he appreciated deeply the kind consideration he had received; that the warm and genial clime of the south seemed to have influenced the very nature of the people and word them correspondingly loyable warm and genial clime of the south seemed to have influenced the very nature of the people, and made them correspondingly lovable and loving. He said that though he was personally a stranger to most of those present he was not unacquainted with the work which they had done, and that though the first missionaries who entered the field in Georgia had had many obstacles to overcome, they had had many obstacles to overcome, they had performed their task worthily, and that the church in Atlanta and in Georgia was still prospering gloriously, and would continue to do so.

At the close of the ceremonies, Cardinal Gibbons conferred the cardinals' blessing on the congregation, after which he walked down the aisle, followed by the other prelates, and was driven to his car, at the East Tennessee denot.

He left at 8:10 for Chattanooga, from where he will go to Hot Springs, N. C., and thence direct to Baltimore.

City Warden Hunter still clings to his old habit of making cases.

But this time the victim of his old time habit is not some petty offender, but the offense which now calls forth the wrath of the insuppressible Jumbo was committed against himself, and as a matter of course the unfortunate offender will have to pay the full penalty for his indiscretion.

Jumbo's wrath is now directed toward newspaper people, and the victim is the American Press association, and from present appearances the festive pencil pusher will have to too the mark just the same as ordinary folks. The cause which has turned Jumbo's wrath toward the American Press association is this:

Some time during the early part of the present year the manager of the Atlanta branch of the association sent out the following paragraph, headed:

the association sent out the following paragraph, headed:

"A SCOUNDRELLY POLICEMAN.

"Jumbo Hunter, a notorious local policeman, claims to have discovered a state law which says that the bodies of all dead paupers who have no relatives, can be turned over to the medical colleges after having been held twelve, hours. One day last week a poor colored woman died, and notwithstanding the pleading of her poor stricken husband, Hunter seized the body and sold it to a medical institution. He seems rather proud of the occurence. The public indignation is great."

This appeared in a number of newspapers, for which the American Press association furnishes plate matter, and among others it got into the Griffin News. A copy of this paper came into Hunter's hands, and of course he saw the above very uncomplimentary notice of himself, which was not calculated to increase his feelings of charity for his fellow man. He has kept the matter to himself, however until yesterday, when he filed suit in the superior court for $10,000 damages, claiming that the publication was malicious libel.

Ralfight, N. C., May 14.—[Special.]—There is a remarkable state of affairs at Laurenburg. W. R. Terry was recently appointed postmaster there. It appears that the appointment is so offensive io the people that they will not send or receive their mail through that office, but they use John's Hill, a town some distance away as postoffice. Not one-fifth of the mail which formerly passed through Laurenburg postoffice is now handled there. FIGHTING THE ROBBERS. Further Particulars of the Robbery of Paymaster Wham.

Tucson, Ariz., May 14.—A Fort Thomas special gives the particulars of the recent fight between robbers and United States paymaster Wham's party near Cedar Springs, in which the robbers succeeded in carrying away $29,000. The road where the attack was made winds The road where the attack was made winds down a long hill, near the top of which it runs between a high wall on the east and a low ledge of rock on the west. A large rock was discovered in the road and the party stopped to remove it. Volley of shots was thereupon fired from brow of hill, which rose to height of lifty feet. None of the robbers could be seen from below. The paymaster's party, which consisted of Major J. M. Wham, Clerk W. R. Gibbon, two non-commissioned officers, nine privates and two drivers, immediately returned the fire, which became general. The robbers had placed men further up the hill to the right of the party and also sent men along the right of the party and also sent men along the hill to get in a cross fire from the left. It is known that at least one man in each of the flanking parties was either killed or wounded. The paymaster's party

Others of the party retreated around the point of the hill. Paymaster Wham, from behind the ledge, thinking the cross fire had been silenced, made a heroic effort to rally his men, but they were compelled to seek other shelter, being exposed to a terrible fire. The paymaster, his clerk and the corporal were the only men who reached shelter unwounded. While part of the robbers kept up the fire from the hill, it was a very easy matter for others to go down and secure the booty, which was in a strong iron-bound box on the boot of the ambulance. It was opened with an ax and $29,000 carried away, together with a valies which they soon cut open and abandoned. One robber was seen to be taken away on a pack mule and tracks of blood showed them to have suffered badly. At no time was all the band has got the call, so his friends think. THE WOUNDED.

Eight men out of eleven were wounded.
One of the wounded soldiers has died and three others are in a critical condition. The soldiers and Indians are out searching for the sorders and thomas are out searching for the robbers, and troops in New Mexico are hastening to intercept them if they should enter that territory. It is believed, however, that they will make an endeavor to escape into Sonora, Mexico. Governor Wolfley has offered a reward of $500 each for the arrest and conviction of the robbers.

THE THOMAS SHIP.

The Naval Board of Design Busy at Work—The New Vessel.

Washington, May 14.—At a meeting of the authorities on the navy department today the subject of names for the proposed new naval vessels was discussed at some length, but no conclusion was reached, except that the names Minneapolis, Detroit and Cleveland will not be selected. The naval board of design has completed plans for a 2,000 ton gunboat, which will soon be published and is now hard at work upon the detail of the tonstruction of the Thomas ship. This vessel will mark a departure in the practice of naval designing, as her general plan was originated outside the navy department by Representative Thomas, a member of the naval-committee of the last house of representatives. Much work remains to be done upon the plans by the department, however, as the details must be supplied and working drawings made to carry out the original idea. The vessel is to be of the modified monitor type, and her peculiarities will be in her heavy ordnance, great defensive power, and ability to make long cruises with her ample coal capacity, differing in this laft respect from the old monitor type.

The United States steamer Monocacy was to have been sold at auction today at Yokolama, but an order from the navy department has been telegraphed stopping the sale. BURIED IN THE DEBRIS.

A Storm Blows Large Euclding Down in Wyomlag.

TACOMA, W. T., May 14.—Shortly before o'clock last night, between fifteen and twenty men were at work in a new building being erected for a hotel by Walter Bates, who was acting as his own foreman. Suddenly a tremendous storm came up from the sonthwest, which struck the building with full force. The structure tottered for a moment and then collapsed, burying the workmen in the rums. Hundreds of citizens and laborers were soon at work endeavoring to rescue the imprisoned men. In a few minutes the body of Walter Bates was taken out. This was followed by two injured workmen, and then by a workman named McConnell, who was dead.

W. H. Snell, who one week ago was elected city attorney and who was a son-in-law of Bates, was soon after taken out seriously injured. Then at intervals of fifteen or twenty minutes three other dead bodies were recovered, but these have not yet been identified. The work of removing the debris is still going on and stified moans are heard underneath.

Clerks Return from Okiahoma With a Good Report.

Washington, May 14.—Clerks who were detailed from the general land office to go to Okiahoma to assist the land officials at Gutrie and Kingfisher land offices returned to Washington today. They state that at Kingfisher about 800 entries had been made up to last Friday, and at Guthrie about 1,000 had been made. The total number of quarter sections in the territory open to settlement is 10,000, hence, less than one-fifth of the whole has been filed. The force of clerks now employed at the two land offices is believed to be sufficient to keep up with current work. Many of the settlers, it is said, have gone to their former homes to settle their private affairs, and will return next fall to complete their entries and establish themselves permanently in the new territory. The scarcity of water has been, to some extent, overcome by digging wells.

The wood work underneath the gallery took fire through a leaky gas pipe during the performance of "The Still Alarm," and the people sat and watched the real fire scene unmoved. The fire truck was called immediately, and a squad of police, headed by Chief Murphy, was in the theater in an incredible short time after the discovery of the blaze. When the firemen entered the building a few persons showned a disposition to rush out, but the fireman dealt one man a blow with his fist. This had the effect of stopping the rush, which might have resulted in a panic. The police did good service in allaying the fears of nervous men and women. The audience watched intently the firemen as they; battled with and subdued the flames. The orchestra played with commendable vigor, which imparted confidence during the excitement. THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE YOUNG MEN'S LIBRARY AS-

Good-Nomination of Officers to Be Voted for at the Election Next Tuesday. The annual meeting of the Young Men's Library association was held last night at the oms on Decatur street,

The attendance was small.
In the unavoidable absence of President W. A. Hemphill, the Rev. George Chaney, vice president, occupied the chair. Mr. A. Alex Myers was requested to act as secretary.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting was dispensed with.

Mr. George R. DeSaussure, the treasurer, read his report, which was approved. It shows that the financial condition of shows that the financial condition of the association is healthy. The receipts for the past year from all sources were $6;301.74, and the expenditures $5,957.24, leav-ing on hand a balance of $344.50, a sum sufficient to pay the outstanding indebtedness of the library on general account for the year just closed. The association, therefore, enters upon the new year virtually out of debt, a fact which shows the institution to be in a better financial condition than at any previous an nual meeting.

Vice-President Chaney read the report of Wr. W. A. Hemphill, the retiring president, which will be found in full below. It is an able document, and contains several important suggestions. It should be carefully read by every suggestions. It should be carefully read by every member of the association, and everybody also who has the interest of the library at heart.

The chair announced that nomination of a president, four directors, a secretary and treasurer for the ensuing year, was in order.

The officers whose terms expired last night, are, president, W. A. Hemphill; vice president, Rev. George Chaney. Directors, Burton Smith, Charles Floyd, J. H. Alexander and P. J. Moran. Secretary, George Forbes, treasurer George R. DeSaussure.

The election will take place on next Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock.

Mr. Alex. C. King, chairman of the library Mr. Alex. C. King, chairman of the library committee, was unavoidably absent, but sent in a very interesting and important report, which is printed in full.

PRESIDENT W. A. HEMPHILL'S REPORT.

To the Members of the Library Association of the City of Atlanta: In accordance with the requirements of your constitution, I submit the following report of the action of your board of directors dure president's desk.

report of the action of your board of directors during the year which ends tonight:

The regular business of the library moved on smoothly through the months of summer and early fall of last year. The months of summer and early fall of last year. The months of summer and early solvence expended in the parchase of carefully selected lists of new books, and valuable additions were made to the table of periodicals; the result was a manifest increase of interest on the part of members and frieads. This desirable condition of affairs was interrupted by a misfortune, the effect of which we still feel. On the hight of October 9, 1888, the roof of our building was destroyed by fire. To the prompt and skiliful efforts of our fire department we one the preservation of the building and books. With the necessary repairs, we decided to add improvements that had ong leen needed. The insufficiency of light in the half had always been a source of great inconvensence. In planning the new roof, two large skysights were piaced in the central portion. This changes the whole effect, and visitors are pleasantly impressed by the cheerful and improved conditions. The outward appearance of the front has seen greatly beautified, by paint, while freshly lated walls and new carpets add much to the component within.

The reports of the treasurer and library committee show that the losses by fire were covered by insurance. About 700 volumes were injured by water. These have been repaired by the binder with the library turbed to the shelve. white the sherives. Last November an effort was made by the board dispose of the library building. We need a more popular location, and aproved facilities for beating, etc., which we do the now possess.

The comparison between this last year's expenditures, which was $2,246, so an increase of expense this year, which is to the amounts paid on building and binding receipts for 1883 and 1889 are $6,301.74, for 1887 1885 23,405.01. The comparison between the circulation of the past year and that of the previous years shows a failing off in numbers. This is due in a large measure to the closing of the library for renails.

The total number of books now on the accession catalogue is 12.82; argains 12.33; volumes last year and fl.,998 the year before. The new books added in the past tweive months number $30.0° these 318 were purchased and 174 were domated. The report of the library committee shows the number of active members to be less than that of a year ago. This admonlishes us to more determined and continued efforts to make additions to the roll of membership. If the masses of our citizens could be brought under the educating and elevating influences of this institution, the effects would be seen and fett throughout the length and breadth of this effect. The a this increused source of recental would place us of a plane of independence far shove what we have known in the past. At anta has not allowed herself to be curstripped by other cities in enterprises of any kind, but washington, Ga, with her Mary Willis library, free to all and generously endowed, is certainly a step in advance of us. We have had considerable trouble in securing an attendance of the necessary number of directors to constitute a quorum at the meeting of the board. I recommend that the number be changed from seven to five.

seven to five.

I take this opportunity of returning my thanks to the directors, especially the chairman of the different committees, for their variable services. Also to the librarian and her assistant and the secretary for their efficient aid. REPORT OF LIBRARY COMMITTEE.
TO THE MESSERS OF THE YOUNG MEN'S LIBRARY SABMILT HE FOLOWING THE MESSERS OF THE YOUNG MEN'S LIBRARY SABMILT HE FOLOWING PEPUT FOR THE YEAR ENDING MAY 14th, 1881:
The most notable areas of the year ending submit the following report for the year ending May 14th, 1883:

The most notable event of the year, if not in the history of the bibrary, is the fire which occurred on October 9th, 1883. This fire destroyed the roof of the building, defaced its interior to some extent, and damaged quite a number of books. It necessitated the closing of the library during a portion of October and from November 12th, 18-9, until January 18th, 1882. It is mentioned at the outset of this report, because it reduced the actual library year, so far as work other than that of repair is concerned to nine months, suspended bians, and necessitated devoting the time of this committee largely to the work of rebabiliation; while the necessary closing of the library just as our October dues became payable, seriously affect collections and embarrassed our operations during the balance of the year. This subject will be referred to again. The issue of books for the nine months of the library years 18889, in which the library was open, also of the library years 1885-8 and 1897 is as follows:

has been at annual meetings in 1887 and 1888, as ing in June, that being the time for the next election.

Recurring again to the fire of last October, the board deemed it wise in replacing the roof to endeavor to make an improvement on the roof originally put on the building, which had always leaked, was deficient in pitch. At the same time it was determined to endeavor to increase the light in the hall. To these ends, the old roof, which was gravel, was not replaced, but an entirely new roof of the best tin, of considerably greater pitch, and with two large sky lights, was substituted. This roof was a more expensive one than the former roof, but your committee think it has been a great improvement. The building now does not leak and the light in the hall is much better.

has been a great improvement. The building now does not leak and the light in the hall is much better.

At the beginning of the present library year the board agreed with this committee to place at its disposal $50.00 per month to buy books. The calamity of the fire and its censequences, however, prevented this sum from being appropriated. It cannot be too strongly urged upon the members of the incoming board that the success of the library is dependent largely upon piacing the library is dependent largely upon piacing the library genomittee in possession of a regular income, upon which it can depend, so that it can purchase newbooks as soon as published Promptly supplying new books is essential to success. The cheap publications of the day supply the average reader, at little cost, with all prominent works of fiction which are not protected by copyright; and if a new work achieves popularity, cheap editions of it are soon brought out. If we sumply our readers only with old books, or with popular new ones so tardily that we have to compete with this cheap literature, we cannot hope to retain them. We must introduce them to the new books. They must find on our tables and shelves periodicals and books as soon as the first editions reach the dealers, and be able to read with us what it would cost them more to read otherwise. Reviewing the last year, it is apparent that the regular income of the library will be barely sufficient to meet the regular expenses, without purchasing a book. No further ma erial reduction of these expenses is possible. An increase of members ip is, therefore, necessary to permit the purchase of books, which is essential to the successful operations of the association, while, as this committee believes, the regular purchase of new books is essential to increase and retain the membership. The committee would recommend the raising by the board, by subscription or entertainment, of a sufficient sum of money to be devoted exclusively to this purpose. That it be turned over to the library commit deng. With new members bringing in additional funds With new members bringing in additional funds, the library committee could then take steps to render the hall and rooms more attractive—to make it more of a gathering place, as of old. We should remember that, the more attractive the library is, the greater necessity it is and the firmer our hold will be on our members and the public.

No step that is calculated to bring this about should be omitted. Any obstacle to its achievement should be removed.

Entertainments are becoming each year more precarious as a means of income. It is to our membership that we must look, and to increase that we must bend every energy.

In conclusing this report the library committee seizes the opportunity of thanking Vice-president.

In concluding this report the library committee seizes the opportunity of thanking Vice-president G. L. Chaney, for the invaluable aid he has furnished during the past year, acting with us at all times, he has borne the greater part of the work, especially the tedious labor occasioned by the fire. Thanks in their last convention are also due to Treasurer Geo. R. DeSoussure for efficient assistance reudered this committee.

To librarian, assistant librarian and assistant secretary—the thanks of the committee are returned, for the prompt performance of all duties and for many courtesies shown.

prove, our assertion that bnyers would, make a mistake in delay. Atlanta property of every description is in demand. Years of experience and observation convinced us that Atlanta was about entering upon a period of advancement such as Minneapolis, Kansas City and Omaha have had and are now having. The growth of Atlanta will be as substantial as either of the above cities, for we possess greater menufacturing advantages and as large a scope of country to supply, and have in addition the healthiest location and the best climate under the sun.

Purchasers are led to believe from the advertisements of the numerous real estate agents that there is an abundance of property of all kinds on the market, but wwo months' hard driving over the city and suburbs convinces us that there is but a limited amount of good property for sale.

We have improved property on the following streets, some of which is very desirable, prices ranging from $12,000 down to $500:

Peachtree, West Peachtree, Ivy, West Baker, Pine, Capitol avenue, Crew, Chamberlin, Rawson, Forest avenue, Pinn, Davis, Marietta, Powell, Waterhouse, Gaite City, Curran, Randeiph, Whitehall, Hunter, Pulliam, Butler, Bush, etc. We have avecant lots everywhere—ciole in and far out—at any price, from $190 tots10,000.

We have 262 acres in lots of from three to sixtyfive acres, part inside city limits and none over two and a half miles from our office. Buy a few acres, and inside of five years grow rich by selling lots.

A few choice manufacturing sites, on railroads,
at reasonable prices.

If you have any city property to exchange for THE RECENT SALES OF REAL ESTATE

at reasonable prices.

If you have any city property to exchange for farms or a home in some of our beautiful suburban towns within 20 miles of Atlanta, call on us.

A Hogansville writer says:

I see in your issue 12th mention made of the improved mode of ginning cotton at Hogansville, which should have been connected with the name of Major J. F. Jones, as it was by his enterprising and public chirited nature that these gins were first erected. Of course Mr. Atkinson was the prime mover, but Major Jones was the man whose indominable energy put the enterprise in operation. In doing so much too for us his enterprising spirit has built in the bosoms of our community for him a monument as lasting as will be our lives—and whenever referred to should be counceted with his name as the originator. Major Jones is now leading a quiet life on his farm near here, where the real pleasures of farm life are fully enjoyed by himself and family, while his numerous iriends reflect with much battsfaction upon his generous and beneficial example.

Immediately after the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Emerson Land company, the board of directors elected at that meeting pro-ceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year. The Rev. San Jones was elected president; John Chatam, vice-president; A. Langmore, secretary and treasurer; F. W. Frost, general manager. A committee appointed for the purpose of placing the balance of the stock of the land company, which caracteristics. ance of the stock of the land company, which car-ries with it pro rata interest in the large mallea-ble iron works located at this place, have been successful in placing the amount needed to put the plant in successful operation. Some of Allanta's prominent hardware merchants and manufacturers who were not slow to see the advantage to be derived from works of this kind right at their doors, have taken stock in the enterprise. Two of the large buildings for these works are under cover, and the machinery will be placed in them as soon as possible. It is expected to have these works in operation in sixty days. A large variety of castings of all kinds used in the hardware trade will be manufactured by this plant, and northern Georgia will have added to her plant, and plant it manufactures another industry which is bringing her so prominently to the front as one of the forces of the southern states.

COCK FIGHT AT HAMBURG.

A Great Event for the Next Three Days—Much Interest Taker.

Augusta, Ga., May Id.—[Special.]—Members of the sporting fraternity and a good many others from Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, who enjoy a good cock fight on the quiet, are looking forward with interest to the opening of the interestate main between Georgia and South Carolina cocks against North Carolina, which begins in Hamburg tomorrow and lasts three days. Already some prominent gentlemen, well known throughout the two states at least, have arrived in Augusta for the sport, though they would not care to be mentioned in this connection.

THE JURY HUNG. A Remarkable Turn in the Arrington

Trial. QUITMAN, Ga., May 14 .- [Special.] - Captain Hammond, for the prosecution, resumed his argument in the Arrington case this morning at half past eight, and spoke until half past twelve. The court then delivered its charge, and the jury retired from the scrutinizing gaze of an eager and anxious audience to their room. There they have remained, and there they are as this leaves the telegraph office, at nine p. m. Both those most closely related to the late young Lane, and those standing nearest to Arrington, have been interviewed, and they express themselves as SATISFIED WITH THE JUDGE'S CHARGE to the jury and say that it was fair and impartial. The only theme of conversation today has been this case. The various speeches, the charge to the jury, the probable verdict. It was thought by many that a verdict would have been rendered long ere this, and by not a few that the verdict would be one of acquittal. Now the prevaiting opinion is that

THE RESULT WILL BE A MISTRIAL. Had Captain Hammond closed last night, the prisoner at the bar might now have been a free man. His four-hour speech of the morning was a masterful appeal for law, order and the supremacy of justice, and public opinion is that it has had much weight with the jury. Everyone is in a state of expectancy, and the jury's finding is awaited with profound interest.

GRIFFIN AND THE FARM.

Remarks Occasioned by Recent Newspaper Articles.
GRIFFIN, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—Under the heading of "A Bad Correspondent," the News of this morning says:

"The Griffin correspondent of the Macon Telegraph made a very bad break in Sunday's issue, in his reference to Griffin aud the experimental station. He took occasion to refer perimental station. He took occasion to refer to groundless runners about an alleged disa-greement between Mr. Bates and the commit-tee and to cast in every paragraph a shade of more or less doubt as to Spalding's ability "to hold on to that which has fallen into her lap," hold on to that which has fallen into her lap," and has shortened, by one third, the time allowed for the payment of the purchase money, which he seems to think will not be made."

COMMENT ON THE NEWS' ARTICLE has been unstinted, and no one, out of a score or more interviewed by your correspondent this morning, believe the Telegraph correspondent justifiable in his report of the matter. The facts justifiable in his report of the matter. The facts were open to him for investigation after the meeting of the Spalding committee of Saturday last, and not one word of doubt as to our ability to raise and pay Mr. Bates for his property—the price having been agreed on previously—was breathed or hinted at.

The News further says, in alluding to an extract from the Atlanta Journal, taken from the Telegraph, about the "trouble," that

THE ATHENS PRESBYTERY.

Maysville.

See al., May 14.—[Special.]—The Athens Presbytery convened here last Saturday with Rev. Mr. Simpson, of Toccoa, Ga., in the chair as moderator. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Lane, of Athens. Some very fine gospel preaching has been interspersed with the session. Presbyterianism seems to be growing throughout the bounds of the presbytery. One of the most notable events of the meeting was the ordination of two young men to the ministry, both students of Columbia college, S. C. These were Samuel Carlege and his brother Themas, sons of Rev. G. H. Cartlege, who has been a pastor in this section of country for more than forty years, having served one church for over thirty years. Both of these young men preached their trial sermons during this meeting. They give promise of making useful men in the ministry. Both go from here to serve churches. The exercises will close tonight with a sermon by Rev. H. F. Hoyt, of Madison, who is a very fine speaker. Rev. G. H. Cartlege was duly installed pastor of the church at this place, Dr. Lane preaching the sermon. Mr. Cartlege leaves Wednesday for Chattanooga to attend a meeting of the general assembly. The next regular meeting of the presbytery will convene at Toccoa, Ga., on the 29th of August. The Proceedings of That Body in Session in

EMMA TITRELL IN A DANGEROUS

The Money Gone, and the Will Disapp It May Prove to Be a Fatal Fall-Farrell's

MACON, Ga., May 14 .- [Special.]-Emma Tittrell, a colored girl, may die from a pistol shot wound received last night at the hands of a young white man of Macon named Charlie Farris.

Emma's home is on Spring street, but against the wishes of Farris, it is said, she went last night to a notorious house of ill-fame, kept by Jame Kendrick, the woman to whose house James Moore carried Mamio whose house James Moore carried Mamie Little, the woman about whom Moore was lynched. It will be remembered that Jane Kendrick also narrowly escaped being lynched by the mob on that memorable occasion.

Farris went to Kendrick's house last night searching for Emma, but she had been hid in a room by Jane Kendrick and Farris did not find her. Later Emma came out of the room, thinking Farris had gone. He was siting on the front porch of the house and saw Emma when she came out of the room. He called her, and it is said, that she got out on the front porch going towards him, when she perceived a pistol in his hand, and she turned and started to run. Farris, while sitting down, took deliberate aim at her and fired. The ball, took deliberate aim at her and fired. The ball, a thirty-two calibre, entered at the lower part of the right lung, ranged upward, passing through the lung and body, and lodged under the skin near the front of the breast, an inch or two below the right collar bone. Dr. W. C. Gibson, who was summoned to attend her, cut the bullet out. She is coughing blood very freely, and Dr. Gibson thinks the wound will prove fatal, though this he will not positively state.

Immediately on firing the pistol, Farris jumped up and ran from the house rapidly, going in the direction of the park, Another well known young man fied with him into the darkness. Farris has not yet been arrested. took deliberate aim at her and fired. The ball darkness. Farris has not vet been arrested.

WILL THERE BE LEGAL CONTEST?

The Property of the Poet Joe Farrell May be Litigated.

MACON, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—Poor Joe Farrell, the sweet poet, died of cancer of the foot at Tate Springs; Tennessee, among strangers and far from home. Because of the extreme kindness shown him in his sickness, so it is alleged, he made a will, just before dying, and left one-third of his property to Dr. R. S. Tidwell, who attended him in his last sickness; one-third to Father Francis Marow, of Tennessee, and one-third to the sisters' hospital of Atlanta. Dr. Tidwell and Father Marow were comparative strangers to sisters' hospital of Atlanta. Dr. Tidwell and Father Marow were comparative strangers to the dying Farrell. By the will Father Marow was made executor. The will has been offered for probate in Tennessee.

Mr. T. C. Burke, of Macon, a friend and the agent of Mr. Farrell has filed application for temporary administration of the estate, the greater part, if not all of it, being in this city.

Mr. R. J. Lowry, of Atlanta, was the banker of Mr. Farrell and it is understood that he has applied in Fulton county for letters of administration.

And now comes the New York Herald con-administration.

And now comes the New York Herald containing the following advertisement:
Heirs wanted—The heirs of John Farrell, or Joseph Farrell, niely of Macon, Ga. will hear something to their advantage by communicating at once with the undersigned. A Mr. Rice, a stoneeuther and uncle of Joseph Farrell resides in New York; also some relatives of the name of Higgins.

F. J. M. Dally,
Attorney at Law.

The John Farrell alluded to in the above dvertisment is the deceased father of Joseph Alphonsus Farrell.

If any heirs now come forward there will undoubtedly be an effort made to break the will. It is claimed, that the will is invalled, in that Mr. Farrell could not legally leave his property to the Sisters' hospital of Atlanta, as that institution is not incorporated. The will and estate of Joe Farrell may yet provoke considerable litigation.

Macon, Ga., May 11.—[Special.]—Observers on Poplar street this morning, between 6 and 7.0'clock, saw a thrilling sight and heard a sickening thud. The manufactory is on the second floor of the building. Norten put a step-ladder on the window sill and climbed up to tack a piece of paper at the top to keep out the early morning sun. There was no sash to the window, and the state of the window. the blinds were wide open. From some unex-plainable cause Norton was suddenly thrown dlong out of the window, the ladder follow-

Norton fell about twenty-five feet and struck upon the small of his back on the iron grating on the sidewalk in front of Gans & Co's. It is said that Norton turned a somersault in mid-air in falling from the window.

His back was broken by the fall and several bones elsewhere about him were badly bruised. His flesh was mashed and blood gushed forth in a stream. He was carried to his home and Dr. K. P. Moore was summoned to attend him. Dr. Moore cannot yet tell whether or not Norton will die. The contusion is said to be very severe. be very severe.

Macon, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—Last week Mr. John M. Godfrey, who kept store on Ross street and owned some property in the city, died. urday temporary letters of administration were granted to Mr. W. H. O'Pry, ex-deputy sheriff of Bibb county.
Yesterday Mr. O'Pry went to take charge of the effects, but was surprised at not finding Mr. Godfrey's will, which witnesses tell Mr. O'Pry they signed and saw Mr. Godfrey sign it. Nor could Mr. O'Pry find two thousand dollars in cash which Mr. Godfrey was known to possess a very short time before his death. Mr. O'Pry made diligent search yesterday for the money and will.

Mr. O'Pry says Mr. Godfrey had a habit of hiding his money in the ground, and may have hid the two thousand dollars in question, there also. But, why did he also hide the will. Mr. Godfrey once told Mr. O'Pry that the reason he did not put his money in bank was, that "banks break but the earth does not."

If the money is not soon found, Mr. O'Pry will put a ferce of hands to work to spade up the yard of the house where Mr. Godfrey lived, in search of the missing cash.

BURGLARY IN SANDERSVILLE.

A Sleeping Man Robbed of His Money by a Burglar.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—A burglar entered the room of Dr. J. T. Irwin, conductor of the Sandersville and Tennille railroad, last night, and stole twenty-five dollars from his pants pocket. The pants were then left on the front porch. The burglar made first an ineflectual effort to secure his prize by entering through the parlor, but could not get from thence into the sleeping apartment. He-then went out, and succeeding in gaining entrance into the bedroom itself, did his stealthy work. The night previous, the pantry and dining-room of Mrs. J. E. Wedden was entered, but nothing of much value taken. Other less effectual efforts have been made, and have placed the eitzens on their guard.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—
Rev. D. McQueen, chaplain of the Milledgeville Light Infantry, and pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, preached a powerful sermon to that company and the college soldiers asked him, what shall we do?" The sermon throughout showed deep study and careful preparation. It abounded in beautiful illustrations of obedience, courage and unison.

He urged the young men to put on the armor of the Lord, be obedient to His commands, stand shoulder to shoulder in His service, let their colors fly and press forward in the fight.
There was no calling so high as to be a soldier of the cross; no reward greater than was given him, who died in the service of the Master.
Besides the military companies, the churgh was well filled, and a better sermon has not

HAPPY CORDELE. How the Glorious News From Atlanta Was Received. CORDELE, Ga., May 14 .- [Special.]-The excitement in Cordele today has been simply im-mense, and tonight the demonstration in honor of the extension of the Atlanta and Florida railroad excelled anything of the kind that ever happened in Cordele. It was known by many of our citizens that the meeting in Atlanta last night would settle the matter and all were in suspense today until definite news was heard.

The first intimation received here of the truth was the following telegram to Colonel J. E. D. Shipp, president of the bank of Cordele and director of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery railroad, in answer to one sent by him for information:

We just gobbled you up.
We are unanimously for a clear alliance.
E. P. Howell. Knowing that Captain Howell had been one of the principal officers of the investment com-pany's proposition, this news from him was onsidered authority, and the doubting Thomases at once gave up all doubt.

The news flew like wild fire. In a few minutes Colonel Shipp's office was crowded by people who wished to see and hear for themselves the good news.

Tonight fireworks are displayed everywhere, and the whole city is illuminated. A band of music is serenading the town. Speeches were indulged in, and there was general rejoicing.

This new road gives Cordele important connections, and it will soon have the advantages enjoyed by but few cities in the south.

Colonel Shipp thinks that Cordele has a brighter future than any city he knows, and at no distant day it will rank with the important cities of the south.

An Impromptu Banquet Given to Colonel Harris.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., May 14.—[Special.]—On reading The Constitution this morning our people were highly gratified to know that the Americus Investment and the Georgia Improvement companies had joined hands, thus connecting the Atlanta and Florida with the Savannah, Americus and Montgonery system of railroads. Our town is one mass of joility tonight in honor of the victory gained, won mainly through the efforts of our esteemed townsman, Colonel H. C. Harris.

An impromptu Banquet at the Harris house, given by the ladies of our city for and in honor of Colonel Harris, was a grand affair, and one of which we feel proud. A committee met Colonel Harris on the arrival of the Atlanta and Florida train and escorted him to the hotel dining hall, where, after enjoying the bountiful repast spread, speeches were made by the mayor, A. C. Riley, Dr. W. I. Greene, Colonel J. F. Troutman, Editor W. M. Kersh, Colonel H. A. Matthews and Mr. O. M. Houser, after which Abasker OF FLOWERS was presented by Miss Lilla Everett, with ap-

Atlanta's First Floral Festival.

The floral festival was a perfect success. The carriages were decorated with exquisite taste and the line of the procession was one of unbroken beauty. The crowds were delighted, the display was in excellent taste, the receipts at the gate were considerable, and there was but one word of comment and that was congratulation and approval.

Yesterday in all likelihood establishes the floral festival as an annual event of the spring, to the joy of the florists, the decorators, the livery men, the carriage makers, the hundreds of others who are directly benefited, the visitors who flocked to Atlanta to witness it, and the pleased sight-seers who thronged Peachtree from one end to the other as the line was passing. The floral festival was a success, unqualified and un-

The Southern Outrage Mill.

Several of our more intense republican contemporaries have started their southern outrage mills grinding again, since the recent race election trouble at Lafayette, La.

With wonderful unanimity they lay great stress on the charge that this is but one of a continually recurring series of similar outrages, and with one voice they declare that the negroes of the south must look to the G. O. P. for relief from such tyrannical interference as characterized the treatment of the colored voters at Lafayette. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat declares "that the same thing might easily have happened in any other part of the south, for it is by such means that the power of the democratic party is maintained throughout all that part of the country." Continuing, it says:

"It is not true that the colored man's right to vote recognized in any southern state. On the connary, it is systematically scouted and resisted. The clitical leaders are all committed to the theory political leaders are all committed to the theory that the whites are justifiable in suppressing the colored vote by any process that can be made to accomplish such a result. We may as well face the issue squarely. It can profit us nothing to deceive ourselves in a case where the testimony is so clear and complete. The time may come when it will be possible for all classes of citizens to vote freely and safely in the south; but that time has certainly not yet arrived, nor are the signs of its approach very ouraging. Possibly a way may be found to horr somewhat during the next four years. That is hope, at least, of all good and patriotic citizens and it remains to be seen what the new congress, co-operating with a republican president, will do towards the solution of the grave and difficult prob

This is a fair sample of the tirades in which some of the acute republican organs of the north are indulging at the expense of the white people of the south.

So often has THE CONSTITUTION replied to such bosh as the above that further argument in denial of the absurd charges would word of truth in any of the above statements of the Globe-Democrat, and we are surprised that a paper of its standing should so foolishly continue an assault which is neither founded on truth or based on the approval of its own party. Even the president has practically committed his administration to a policy which is a refutation of the Globe-Democrat's charges. The people of the north have spoken on the question, and the old and hackneyed cry of southern election outrages has been practically abandoned as being too old and worn-out to be of further

If any election laws are made by the present administration they will not be in the direction of regulating the vote in the south only, but of a more general nature, such as will guarantee freedom in the exercise of the voting franchise in the north as well as in the south. For every so-called southern outrage there are a half dozen of more flagrant character north of the Ohio river and the Mason and Dixon line. Even at the doors of the Globe-Democrat "election outrages" are more flagrant than they are further south.

But the south has stood so much of this abuse and unjust attack on the part of the bloody shirt wavers that it can now afford to look on with contempt, with the comforting assurance that the day has passed when they can do any harm.

The bloody shirt has been condemned by the verdict of the people and it must go!

The Ironmasters Join Issue.

There appears to be great excitement among the iron producers of Pennsylvania. They are beginning to experience some of the results of the recent developments in the iron fields of the south

Heretofore the Pennsylvanians have laughed at the suggestion that southern iron would presently enter northern markets and prove to be a formidable competitor with Pennsylvania-made iron. what was suggested is now a fact. Southern iron has lately been seeking the northern markets, and the result has been so significant that one of the leading iron corporations of Pennsylvania-the Thomas Iron company-has reduced the price of iron to $15.50, probably the lowest point it has yet reached.

It has been stated that this reduction is an aggressive movement aimed at the couthern furnaces, but the fact seems to be that the low price of southern iron has placed the Pennsylvania ironmasters on the defensive, and they have simply reduced prices in order to place their product on a footing with southern iron.

Recently the railroads of this section, looking to their own interests, have arranged to place the output of southern furnaces on a footing with that of northern furnaces so far as freight rates are concerned, and it is this last feather that has caused the Pennsylvania camel to have the backache. Southern iron is now selling at $14.50, and at this rate a very large profit can be made. The understanding is that Pennsylvania iron cannot be drawn for less than $13 a ton, but southern iron can be produced for $9; so that if the Pennsylvanians have organized to drive the southerners out of the market, they will discover their mistake a little later in the seasoil.

The Thomas company's cut in the price of iron is made to pretect that company's producers; but the real effect of it will be to drive Cut of business a great many of the smaller furnaces in the Lehigh valley, which are poorly equipped for competition of any sort. The southern furnaces have all the modern improvements, and, although Mr. B. W. Clarke, president of the Thomas company, is inclined to sneer at the extent of their resources, it will be found, when the fight is fully on, that they have capital enough to protect themselves.

As a matter of fact, they need no capital for this particular business. They have equipments that are superior to a majority of those in Pennsylvania, and they can sell fron at a profit at prices that will drive every furnace in Pennsylvania to the wall.

This is the situation. The issue is joined, so to speak, and, while the fight may result in a pool or trust, we should like to see the competition carried to its legitimate result, which would mean the supremacy of south ern iron in northern markets.

The Postal Service and the Civil Service.

Superintendent Bell, of the railway mail service, explains the recent general shake up in the postal service by the statement that the republican administration is reinstating postal clerks removed during President Cleveland's administration. He says that ninety per cent of the new appointments of postal clerks have been made from the ranks of the experienced men who were removed for partisan reasons by the last administration, and who are now being put in the place of the incompetent and inexperienced clerks for whom they were removed.

Superintendent Bell is like all the other heads of departments in Washington; he pays no attention to the civil service, and excuses his disregard for it by mildly stating that the preceding administration did the same thing.

But we can expect no more from the republican party. It is now, as it has always been, the enemy of the civil service idea and it is ridiculous to presume that now, that it is in power, it will be controlled by it.

Everybody knows that Mr. Bell's excus is a mere sham and that he is proceding just as if there were no such thing as the civil service. Every other head of department in Washington is doing the same thing. This is part of the republican pro-

As to the postal service we believe that the further it is removed from the influence of the politicians the more efficient will it become. We gave space a day or two ago to a communication on the civil service in reply to a recent editorial in which THE CONSTITUTION pronounced emphatically against the system as it is now conducted. The writer of that communication took the position that "the great business interests of the country require, and the people de nand, efficient and faithful service in all branches of the government," and asked, "how can such service be attained and kept if the spoils system is to continue?"

THE CONSTITUTION is not an advocate of the spoils system to the extent that our correspondent would class us. Indeed, as far as the mail service is concerned, we think it would be decidedly to the advantage of the public if its management were kept argument that our correspondent brought to bear most prominently in sustaining his position in support of the civil service.

But we are against the civil service as it is conducted, and no sort of argument or sophistry can convince us that the party in power can be held to just responsibility when it is officered by men belonging to another party. We must fight the devil with fire, and as long as we attempt to stand by the civil service idea, with the chief characteristic of he opposition party being that it takes car of its own, we will be at an unfair disad vantage.

Those who walk for money are more fortunate than those who run for office.

PHILADELPHIA claims that there was de uchery at the centennial ball. When a man blows his nose in Philadelphia, the cre colored blinds are pulled to, and he is arrested on a charge of debauchery.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT has accepted the place of civil service commissioner, and the country will hear no more from him. We trust the deep hole fits him.

A New General Manager.

In a recent number of the Jacksonville Times-Union a writer furnishes an interesting sketch of Doctor Franklin Jack, recently made general manager of the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West railroad system. Manager Jack is one of the most prominent men in the Southrn Express company, and has hosts of friends e sketch referred to reads:

Mr. Jack is a man every inch, and in the discharge of all duties devoling upon him, self is the last consideration. His career presents a bright example which the youth of the country will do well to follow, showing, as it does, the reward that all ways comes in the country will do well to follow, showing, as it does, the reward that path of duty, and in their daily lives observe the golden rule.

The subject of this sketch, Doctor Franklin Jack, late superientendent of the Georgia Central system, Savannah, Floridi and Western system, and Fforida Division Southern Express company, embracing many thousand miles of railway territory, was born at Atlanta, Ga., in 1813, and is consequently in the forty-sixth year of his age.

He received a plain common school education in his native town, and in 1859 obtained employment in Augusta, Ga., but remained there only a short time. Returning to Atlanta the again entered the school room.

In 1881 Governor Joseph E. Brown, now representing Goorgia in the United States senate, issued a call for volunteers to guard the frontier of the state against threatened invasion. Among the first to come forward in response to this call, was young Jack, then Is years old, and he was mustered in as a state trooper.

This service was of very short duration, but soon ter he returned home he enlisted in a

This service was of very short duration, but soon after he returned bome he enlisted in a command soing to the front, and went to Virginia a full-ledged confederate soldier and remained in the service until the close of the war.

When General Sherman entered Atlanta the Adams Express company followed, and the cessation of hostilities found it firmly established, with a Mr. Morrison as its agent. Mr. Jack entered its employ as a check clerk, but soon became cashier in the office. The incessant work, both day and night, made grave inroads on a heretofore strong constitution, and he was forced to resign his position. His next employment was with the Southern Exress company at Augusta, Ga., as assistant to the ate C. S. Plank, eashier.

About the year 1870, Mr. George Ould, auditor for late C. S. Plank, cashier.

About the year 1870, Mr. George Ould, auditor for the company at Augusta, resigned his position and went to his home at Baltumore, Md., and Mr. Jack was selected to fill the vacancy. December 17, 1872, he married Miss Anna Clerk, daughter of the late John M. Clark, of Augusta, Ga., a young lady of fine attainments, quiet, unostentations, and devoted to family and home. In January, 1883, Mr. H. Dempsey, superintendent of the southern division of the Southern Express company was obliged to tender his resignation on account of illness from overwork. Considering the circumstances, the company generously refused to accept this resignation, but relieved Mr. Dempsey of the too arduous duties of looking after such a large extent of territory by appointing Mr. Jack superintendent of the Fiorida division. At that time the health of Mr. Jack was not very good, and this position relieved him of much laborious desk work.

Being well posted in all the details of the express business, he easily assumed the management of the outside or transportation branches of if, and did his part faithfully and well.

In recognition of his merits as man, his fine executive ability and superb business qualifications, he has received the splendid appointment of general manager of the Jarksonville. Tamps and Key steep whole under his charge.

eral manager of the Jacksonville. Tampa and Key West system of railroads, embracing five divisions, the whole under his charge.

Of his ability to successfully manage this vast and growing enterprise there can be no doubt, and his old comrades of the Southern Express company are proud that one of their number should have attained this high and responsible position. In the selection of General Manager Jack the owners of this great system of railroads in Florida have shown good judgment. Their interest could not be in safer or more capable hands, and they are to be congratulated on the acquisition. Charleston Feels Proud.

BRER FOX, DRER RABBIT AND THE BIG UMPIRE AT ATLETHIC PARK.

The Richest Game of Baseball Ever Seen in Atlanta-The Foxes and the Rabbits Captained by Doctor Amos Fex and Joel Chandler Harris, With Colonel A. L. Harris as Umpire-The Crowd in an Uproar of Laughter All the Time-

The funniest game of baseball ever played in Atlanta was enjoyed by a good crowd at Athletic park vesterday afternoon. The captains, the umpire and the players proceeded to the scene of action in a big open wagon, drawn by two top-heavy iron-grays, driven by Colonel Hinton P. Wright in grand style.

Brer Joel Chandler Harris coached the Rabbits and Brer A. L. Harris acted as umpire. As the captains, the umpire and the players valtzed into the arena they were greeted with paralyzing applause and a varied assortment of laughter.

Brer Amos Fox commanded the Foxes,

It is only two weeks oft and we will startle the people of this section with this great show. The fact of the matter is that very few people realize how grand and tremendous a thing it is. The best evidence of its magnitude can be judged by the work that is being done at Peters park. It will indeed be a novel sight for this section to see a stage with three hundred handsomely costumed performers at one time. Every one in Atlanta should secure seats early for themselves as well as for their friends from the country."

The sale of reserved seats open at Miller's Tues day morning, and seats can be secured by wire or mail.

POMPET'S FIRRY SPLENDORS.

POMPET'S FIRRY SPLENDORS.

Never was antique city more realistically set forth to the eyes of moderns than Pompeti will be seen at Peters park.

The presentation of life in the doomed city, its The presentation of life in the doomed city, its sports, its marches, its religious ceremonials, is thoroughly interesting from first to last, and no such brilliant and ornate pyrotechnic display has ever or ever will be seen in Atlanta, as that which illustrates the cruption of the burning mountain and the destruction of the city.

ONE WHO HARSEEN IT.

A gentieman who has seen this presentation said, in speaking of it last night in the Kimball house. "Large crowds are sure to gather at Pain's amphitheater every performance to witness the periodical cruptions of Versuvius and see the streams of lava pour down upon the docmed city of Pompeii. Nothing could be pleasanter than to sit in a cool chair and watch this grand spectacle of destruction presented as it will be with such a triumph of the pyrotechnic art. This is the sort of thing one can see many times over and enjoy the last as much, if not more, than the first sight. When one becomes familiar with the details of the presentation the brilliant display still remains attractive to the eye, and the mind is as much enthrailed as ever with the themes. In this case, at least, "time cannot wither, nor custom stale."

The Atlanta Boys Have Played Splendid Ball While Away From Home-Their Victory Yesterday Was a Brilliant One-The Other Games.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 14.- | Special. Fitteen hundred people welcomed the Pelicans home and saw them beaten by Atlanta. It looked like a shut-out for the visitors up to the eighth nning, although they fought hard. In the first inning Polhemus got a base on balls and McGuirk's home run brought both across the plate. New Orleans kept on hitting Pender hard, but fine fielding prevented runs. Sterling and Howe especially disinguished themselves. On the other hand Petty's ne pitching and lucky fielding by New Orleans kept Atlanta from scoring. In the seventh Powell bit safe and made the other three bases on a little error of S. ea's, which demoralized all the visitors to that they did not know what to do with the ball, It looked as if the game was over when in the eighth Pender was hit by the pitcher and scored on sigles by Howe and Sterling. Then, after Kinsley flew out, Dowse hit safe to center, and Polhemus's fumble let Howe in. Hoeneman also rapped the ball safely and Polhemus made a wild throw in letting Sterling and Dowse score. Atlanta took heart, and brilliant catches by Sterling and Shea prevented New Orleans from scoring in the ninth. Following

It is generally conceded tonight that Spokane is better than Proctor Knott. A few insist that Knott was not well ridden and make other excuses. The showing made by western horses has given the Montana climate a high reputation for breeding racers, and by association has added to the favor in which California is held. All excuses to the contrary, the fact remains that Spokane has given Knott three pounds and beaten him in two races consecutively.

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

WAS ATLANTA'S FIRST CARNIVAL OF THE FLOWERS.

THE PROCESSION AND THE SCENES

Nothing That Could Equal it Has Ever Been Seen in the South-Everything Went Off Beautifully -The Drive to the Park and the .Luncheon

The floral festival was a success-marked and brilliant. Never has Atlanta, or any other city in America, seen so beautiful a spectacle. It was a merry-making more beautiful and unique than any ever seen before-a something rarely radiant and beautiful, and typically southern. It seemed that the wide, generous land of the south had showered her fairest treasures upon the gay carts and carriages, with their fair occupants; and the scene which was presented to the admiring throng was dazzling in its brilliancy. There was absolutely nothing to mar the success of the festival and the enjoyment of participants and spectatos. Croakers there had been-croakers who did not believe the affair could be made a success; but these were converted to the most enthusiastic admiration of it all as soon as they saw the procession.

The procession, showing, as it did, the beautifully decorated carriages and the beautifully costumed women; the drive to the park, the drives about the park, and the luncheon at the clubhouse, and then the drive home in the glorious meculight-all was perfection.

To Mrs. W. M. Dickson belongs the chief credit for the success of the festival. It was she who conceived the plan of such a festival for Atlanta, and to her untiring efforts the carrying out of the plan is due.

The Procession Forms.

Early in the day the weather was anything but favorable, but toward evening the sun came out as if to give indorsement to this beautiful festival, and by the time set for the forming of the procession the day was warm

The people were out early and an hour before there was hope of seeing any of the participants Peachtree and streets crossing it were filled with spectators. The carriages which arrived early were the subject of general com-ment. The floral decorations of carriages and occupants were discussed by the lookers-on and each new beauty would call forth excla-mations of admiration. For everybody did admire it all. Then the carriages and carts

Looking down this space, the eyes of those who were not so fortunate as to be participants but who were fortunate enough to be allowed to secure good positions on the sidewalk, rested upon what seemed to be one continuous bank of flowers of all hues. The brilliant costumes of the ladies here as at all times during the day added very greatly to the attractiveness of the scene, and as the bright rays of the evening sun fell upon the inviting procession, the picture was one that inviting procession, the picture was one that once seen could never be forgotten.

The procession moved on time-which is wonderful for a procession. First came a squad of mounted police. Then at the head of the procession came the king of the carnival, Captain R. J. Lowsy, who rode upon a splendid horse garlanded with red and white roses. Mrs. Julia Knight and Mr.

city in America today, one will meet with but fe ladies who have clear complexions. Many person have tried to account for this sad fact because of its severe climate of America, but such reasoning wrong. A bad complexion is caused by impure blood, and no lady can be really beautiful and no man ruddy, who has diseased or impure blood.

The best known way of keeping the blood pure i by keeping it circulating. In this way it passes rapidly through the lungs, kidneys and liver, and is rapidly through the lungs, kidneys and liver, and is constantly parified. But supposing the system is logged up as is frequently the case, then of course the blood becomes impure. Then far loo often men and women take some powerful purgative, pill or other substance, that clears the body quickly, weakens the strength, and leaves the system in worse condition than before. The only sensible way is to take a gentle, pure and natural purgative moderately but regularly, and the highest known medical authorities of the day agree that the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Sait is infinitely superior to any other natural preparation known to the world. It is gentle, yet simulating; it is pure, yet powerful. Containing only natural properties, being evaporated from the celebrated Carlsbad Sprudel Spring, it cannot injure the body in the yet powerful. Containing only natural properties, being evaporated from the celebrated Carlsbad Sprudel Spring, it cannot injure the body in the least, and yet it has never failed to renew life, pur fy the blood and thus clear the complexion. Hundreds of doctors have given it their unqualified indorsements; thousands of people go each year to the Carlsbad Springs, but they can obtain no greater benefit than by taking the Carlsbad Sprudel Salt in its powdered form, such as can be procured at any drug store in the land. When it is considered that the Carlsbad Salt costs, practically, little more than the cheap, questionable and often injurious Salts, purgatives and Bitter Waters that are in the market, one bottle being sufficient for nearly a month, all persons who keep pace with the times and desire only what is best, will see that it is to their interest to use only the Carlsbad. NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The stock market was a little more active today and, while firm to strong in the forenoon, reacted later in the day, and, while final changes are somewhat firegular, preponder-ance is on the side of lower figures. Buying of grangers with general favorable crop news again stimulated speculation this morning. Although grangers were the only features, interest centered for a long time in the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and that stock scored a marked advance during the forencon, but lost a quarter portion of it later. Western operators and foreigners were buyers, though the latter are credited with selling considerable St. Paul. But local traders were in-clined to sell and realizations were large and at last the tide. The bears were not idle, however, and selling of stocks on sellers' options extended to several other stocks beside the Oregon Trans-Contipental, in which, however, it was most marked. St. Paul was again leader in point of activity, and preferred at one time moved up 1 per cent when the movement in Burlington was at its height. Funding scheme had this effect and a new deal in Richmond and West Point also made preferred Block of that company very prominent for strength and it made the most important advance of the day, closing within 2 of its best figure. A proposed issue of new stock weakened the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line and the latter, which has been dormant for nearly a week, sold down materially from its last price. The class was quiet but heavy and generally at slight declines from the opening prices. Total sales were 204,600 shares. A majority of the list are fractionally lower, but only important changes were the advance of 2 per cent in Richmond and West Point preferred and a decline of 15-18 per

Our private cables from Liverpool report that spinners will continue to buy moderately until the crop prospects become better defined. Our own information in regard to the crop shows little or m improvement, and the complaint is general east of the Mississippi of lack of rain. Cotton has again assumed a mercantile position and future operations can now be conducted in accordance with the law of supply and demand, the speculative element having been largely eliminated during the recent decline. Our spinners show a disposition to buy more cotton from our New York stock and are pay-

g full prices for their requirements. In Chicago brilliant weather was responsible for In Chicago brilliant weather was responsible for the opening weakness in wheat. There was a great scarcity of orders then; in fact, it has been a re-markably dull day, and at times the pit was almost deserted. The scaboard clearance are nothing, while the exports are placed at thirteen loads.

NEW ORLEANS, May 14-[Special.] -Glenny & Violett, in their cotton circular today, say: With the exception of Liverpool which opened and closed close about 3 to 4 points and New York 3 to 4 points New York friends advise us today that they look for higher prices should crop reports continue un-tavorable. There is very little disposition to sell savorable. There is very little disposition to sell the late months owing to the dry spell that seem to exist generally. Port receipts today show a loss of 4,000 bales as compared with last year. Spots here are steady; sales 1,000 bales; middling 10%.

GLENNY & VIOLETT. NEW YORK, May 14 .- [Special [-Henry Clews] The colton market ruled very well today, with small and unimportant fluctuations. The trading was limited and mostly for local account. The big operators did little or nothing, their inclination being to hold off, pending further Liverpool developments. The early advices reported a steadler market for spot cotton in Liverpool today, with sales of 3,000 bales at unchanged prices. Futures were steady and showed an advance of 3-61d to 4-64d, and later another point was gained. This were steady and showed an artifacture when steady and later another point was gained. This later advance was, however, lost at the close, and the market closed quite and steady at the opening figures. In gampathy with these advices our market opened firm, with the first prices showing gains of three to five points on all the summer options, while the winer deliveries were steady at unchanged prices. A further gain of ten and twelve points was made on the June and the August options after the first call, but this, with two to three points additional, was lost during the forenoon on realking sales, together with the Liverpool market closing a shade easier. In the inte trading the market ruled steader under the covering of the shorts and some huying by commercial houses, and at the cose the market ruled steady at an advance of three to four points in the late months. At the moment the market is so dull and featureless that it is difficult to form an opinion respecting the course of prices for mear futures, but we think there is very little danger at present prices for the summer months.

A FURTHER REDUCTION

AN FREIGHT RATES ON WATERMEL. ONS IS PROBABLE.

The Chicago and Ohio River Traffic Associa-tion to Consider the Matter-An Interview With Hon. J. L. Hand.

Hon. J. L. Hand, of Mitchell county, is in the city on his way to Chicago to meet the Chicago and Ohlo River Traffic association in the interest of the watermelon growers of Several of the leading lines beyond the Ohio river have intimated that they would use their influence in the traffic association to get the same twenty-per cent reduction in freight rates within their territory that has been given by all lines within the Southern Railway and Steamship association.

"There is good reason for a reduction," said Mr. Hand, "all the reductions heretofore have been made by the roads south of the Ohio river. The crops this year will be larger than ever and the roads can afford to give this reduction. But most important of all, the business can be enemously developed.

by the proper rates and a quickening of the schedules. By giving a reduction in rates and making the schedules what they can be made, the watermelon business can feach four times as many customers

"There are hundreds of towns of 10,000 population that never saw a Georgia watermelon. They are not on the rate sheet and melons would have to pay local rates to them from the distributing centers that have rates. Besides this, they have at the present to go into these centers and buy the melons. That makes two commissions and this, with the local freight added to the through rates, is more of a burden than the melons will carry. With through rates to these points we could ship to them direct and have to pay only one commission for seiling the melons. I am satisfied to pay a commission once, but two commissions make more of a burden than we can stand. The future of the truck business is gnormous. It is only limited by the consumption." "There are hundreds of towns of 10,000 popu-

"We have the statement from the Central and the Louisville and Nashville roads that they have built 2,100 new ventilated cars for this season's business. The Louisville and Nashville road has given the business a care and thoughtful attention not equalled by any other except the Western and Atlantic, and with good results for the shippers. The Central road also has been disposed to handle the business as well as possible, and has been confiderate of the shipper's interest. The Savannah, Florida and Western road has not given the business the same thoughtful attention that has been given by the other roads I have mentioned, and I think it is due to this fact that the acreage is 25 to 33 per cent less on its that the acreage is 25 to 33 per cent less on its

"That road, however, mangurated an admirable system for which I wish to give full credit. They posted watermelon bulletins at every station every morning, showing the cars routed the day before from its line—so many to Louisville, so many to Cincinnati, Chicago, and various points. This is a great help to the shippers, and if kept up regularly, with promptness and accuracy on all the roads in watermelon territory, giving the information by ten of clock in the morning at each station. watermelon territory, giving the information by ten o'clock in the morning at each station, the problem of avoiding glutted markets will be solved. There was not a great deal of trouble from a general flow of melons to one market last year. There was a time in July when all the markets were flooded; but that could not be helped, as it was due to the rapid maturing of the crop."

"What does it cost to raise melons? Can the farmers make money at $30 net on a car?"

"What does it cost to raise melons? Can the farmers make money at $30 net on a car?"
"I think, perhaps, after awhile they may do that. In new territory the yield is nothing like it is where the business has been going on for years. There is a great deal of minutiae that it takes experience and intelligence to go through successfully. The melon crop takes a great deal more attention than the coiton crop. In cotton the culture has got down to settled ruts. I have two cotten plantations that I have not seen this year, but I see my watermelons every week.

As to cost, the growers are using fertilizers a great deal now. They put about $10 worth on an acre. Fertilized to that extent the acre will probably produce a car load of melons, while the average yield in new territory is about a car to three acres and a half. It costs about $1 an acre to cultivate the melons and while the average yield in new territory is about a car to three acres and a half. It costs about $1 a ner to cultivate the melons and about $10 a car to load them. There is $24 a car before it leaves the station under the most favorable circumstances. Besides this something must be allowed for rent on the land. I know of hundreds of poor devils who did not get enough for their melons to pay for the fertilizer last year.

Another danger we have to guard against is from the sharpers who infest the watermelon teritory. Here is an instance: Last sammer two menget off the train at my station. One was a traveling man from whom I had bought goods for several years; an honorable man representing a good house. He introduced the other man as a dealer in watermelons. The fellow was a good talker and handed me a card with the cut of a six-story house with "Cartright Brothers" across the top. He told me he was taking consignments of melons and handling them to good advantage, but did not press me for shipments. He said he got quotations every day, and while there he received telegrams giving 'quotations. They were about with the market and not high enough to cause suspicion. He did not claim to get any more for melons than anybody else, but said he had an arrangement by which he got a freight rebais customers the benefit of that. I was still cautious, and he went off without any shipments. After he left he sent me quotations, and they cars to Cartfight Brothers at Cincinnati. I waited till the day before they quotations, and, they ran along about with the market. I concluded I would try him, and shipped two cars to Cartright Brothers at Cincionati. I waited till the day before they were due there and wired: 'I have shipped two cars; quote prices.' He wired back a reasonable quotation, and the next day reported that the melons had arrived and were in fine condition. Then he reported that they were selling well and bringing good prices. I shipped three more cars and wired him to send me a check and account of sales. A week passed and no check came, and I wired Mr. Twitty, who was traveling north, to go to Cincinnati and see who had received the melons from the railread. He found that the railread had delivered them on the order of "Cartwright Brothers" to a well known commission house. At the commission house he found that the melons had been sold for good prices, and they had paid over to the fellow $100 a car above all expenses. They did not know him, and on investigation it was found that there was no such six story house and no such firm in the cite.

there was no such six story house and no such firm in the city.

"To avoid this the market committee is preparing a list of commission merchants, with ratings showing who is reliable, who is slow and who is prompt in remittie."

We select this leaf tobacco personally from the best vegas in Cuba and it comes to us directly through the Atlanta enston house. In making cigars we do not, like most of the New York and northern manufacturers, use machines, wooden moulds, or lead forms in which poorly paid and inexperienced workmen eram the tobacco in order to give Singe to the cigars, and which necessarily detract, if they do not kill, and which necessarily detract, if they do not kill, the fine flavor of the tebacco. IS TO BE FORMED.

It Will Own the Sutherland Process for Making Gas from Crude Oil,

Which has been so successful for the states of Georgia and Fiorida. A plant has been running successfully at Americus for several months. cessfully at Americus for several months.

[Copled from letter of December 21st, 1858, from Atlanta, Ga,]
I came this far with Dr. Morton; saw his new gas turned on before leaving, and think now that your troubles are over so far as gas complaints are concerned. It is a perfect success, and I am confident will please our people. It is a large, brilliant, white light, the best gas light that I eversaw.

Signed, J. B. FELDER, Mayor.

[From the "Americus Recorder," January 10, 1889.] [From the "Americus Recorder," January 10, 1889.]

The new gas that is now being furnished our citzens by the Americus Gas Company is giving perfect satisfaction, as is attested by the numerods expressions heard on the streets daily. Mr. W. E. Murphy has been congratulated on the vast improvement by many who are now using it. The present gas is free from any bad odor, does not smoke, and is entirely different from the old.

THE CAPITAL STOCK WILL BE $500,000, TWO. FIFTHS OF WHICH IS TO BE RETAINED BY THE PARENT (COMPANY, THE BALANCE BEING HELD BY THE SUBSCRIBERS. THE STOCK IS TO BE DIVIDED SO THAT THE ORIGINAL SUBSCRIBERS WILL RECEIVE AS FOLLOWS:

FOR $1,000 WILL GET $25,000 OF STOCK.

SUBSCRIBERS WILL RECEIVE AS FOLLOWS:
FOR $1,000 WILL GET $25,000 OF STOCK.

* $500  $12,500 ***

As it will pay to put plants in towns of 1,600 inhabitants, and also as the old works can be readily changed at very small expense, this stock should pay a dividend the second year. It has been demonstrated that gas can be made from Ohio oil, and the cost brought below 20 cents per 1,000 feet.

A patent oil burner also goes with the process. This also burns crude oil and is expected to effect considerable saving over coal, besides saving labor.

IN THE COURTS.

Yesterday was return day for the city court, and a large number of suits were filed. The suits were mostly of a minor character, however, the most important ones being against the several railroad companies for damages.

Mr. William Schrimper, through his attor-Mr. William Schrimper, through his attorney, Mr. W. T. Moyers, entered suit yesterday against the city of Atlanta and the East Atlanta Land company for $500 damages. Schrimper keeps a retail goocey stole on the corner of Edgewood avenue and the Boulevard, and while the improvements were being made on Edgewood avenue the workmen had left a pile of dirt in front of his store, which Schrimper says greatly incenvenienced him and almost blocked the entrance to his store. The dirt was allowed to remain for three weeks, it is alleged, and during that time a heavy rain came up, and the sewer being blocked up, the water overflowed and poured into his store, damaging both the premises and the stock of damaging both the premises and the stock of Suit was entered against the Richmond and Danville Railroad company yesterday in the city court for two thousand dollars damages. The plaintiff is B. D. Henderson, and in his petition he says that he was a flagman on the Air-Line road, and that on the 17th of last month, while attempting to couple an engine to a coal car at the balt junction, he had two fingers on his left hand mashed, and, it is alleged, rendered useless, damaging him to the extent of the above amount.

The Citizens National bank, of Louisville, Kentucky, yesterday entered suit against Messrs. J. H. & A. L. James, bankers of this city, for the possession of certain papers, which the plaintiffs allege are in the hands of the Messrs. James, and which they have refused to surrender on demand therefor.

Nancy N. Moody entered suit yesterday against the East Tonnessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad company for $15,000 damages for the death of her sen Oliver, who was run over and killed by a train on that road, while he was walking on the track, between Welis and Humphreys streets.

David B. Comer, a traveling salesman, filed suit yesterday in the city court against the Ballard Transfer company. The suit is brought for the non-delivery of a trunk, the damages claimed to have been sustained through the loss of said trunk being $250.

Miss Elizabeth A. Wheeler, of Anderson, S. C., sues the Richmond and Danville Railroad company for $25,000 damages for injuries sustained in a wreck at Toccoa last November. The suit is brought by the Hon. W. C. Benit, of South Carolina.

Two other damage suits were filed against the Richmond and Danville railroad company yesterday. One was by Mrs. L. T. Johnson on account of the death of her husband, and the other is by Mrs. Mary E. Davis for the death of her husband, who was killed while coupling ears. Mr. Davis wants $15,000 and Mrs. Johnson wants $10,000.
